The Montana Jinx—Road Trip Again Finds 'Tips on Short End

Montana almost broke its greatest jinx last night—winning on the road—but two free throws by Denver's high-scoring Dick Brott in the final two seconds of play quenched the threat.

With the score tied 53-53 Brott popped in his free throws to give Denver the 55-53 win and send the Grizzlies down to their fourth defeat in Skyline play.

Brott, who is battling with court that MSU officials had BYU's Tom Steinke for the Skyline scoring lead, scored 30 points in all last night, including 22 in the tightly played second half.

The score was tied several times in the late stages of the game. Montana held the largest lead enjoyed by either team when they led 43-37 midway through the second half.

With 52 seconds to play Denver gained possession of the ball and the score was 53-53. Montana switched from its zone defense into a man-for-man, but did not come out after the ball.

Denver stalled, until with only two seconds left Brott worked in for a shot. He was fouled and then he sank the game-winning free throws.

Brott had not been hitting free throws well in the second half, but he came through when the pressure was on. In the two seconds remaining Montana did not get a shot.

The loss, coupled with Utah's 107-82 win over New Mexico last night, dropped the Grizzlies back into third place. Montana is now one game behind Utah. The Utes have won six and lost three in conference play, while Montana is five and four.

Zip Rhoades led the Grizzlies attack last night, scoring 19 points. He was followed by Al Dunham and Hal Erickson who scored 10 apiece.

Denver and Montana traded points in the first half until the Grizzlies pulled away in the final stages to lead 30-23 at the intermission.

Segregation Issue Discussed By Negro Pastor

"Segregation is the cancer of the American social system," Dr. Charles Boddie, D.D., said at a coffee hour Wednesday afternoon.

Speaking of integration, Boddie emphasized that it does not mean amalgamation. Integration means the social acceptance of the Negro race, not inter-marriage of the races.

As an example, Dr. Boddie cited the unions proclaiming brotherhood and not accepting Negroes in the unions or as a laborer.

"Segregation without discrimination is impossible," he said. Dr. Boddie gave examples of the separate and unequal facilities in the South. In some places the Negro facilities such as buses and schools would not compare with the white facilities. But on the other side in one state a white correction home for boys is dirty and stinking. The Negro correction home is clean and boys want to be committed.

Discrimination against any person makes him feel unwanted, and may ruin the rest of his life, Dr. Boddie brought out in discussing the rushing of the fraternities and sororities. "Any discrimination against a person who has a physical characteristic different from your own is a sin against God because God made him that way. You cannot change what God has made."

Two types of work to combat segregation were mentioned. One is to boycott organizations which practice segregation and discrimination and the other is to join them and "try to make them see the light," Dr. Boddie said.

AP Chief to Give Address At Charter Day Convocation

Montana State University will observe its 64th birthday Monday with the annual Charter Day celebration. Richard K. O'Malley, chief of the Associated Press Bureau in Denver, will be the main speaker at the observance.

MSU was granted its charter Feb. 17, 1893, but classes did not begin until September, 1955.

Music by the Jubileers will precede the main address by O'Malley at the Charter Day Convocation, scheduled for 10 a.m.

The entertainment by the Jubileers is to consist of their program from "Destination Campus" which they presented at the Nite Club dance, Feb. 8 and 9.

After the musical part of the program, the deans and the honored guests will proceed from their seats in the auditorium onto the stage for the rest of the convocation.

Mr. O'Malley, whose parents were newspaper people, was born in Portland, but grew up in Butte.

Reporter Relates Non-Hoyle Cues To Bridge Success

By CAROL EMMERTON

Since there are bridge lessons given on campus, here are a few tips (not according to Hoyle or Horse Sense) which may help you.

First, beg or steal at least one deck of cards. Avoid borrowing a deck from a place like the New Montana bar (your opponent may have memorized the cards by the liquor stains), or barbershops (hair oil tends to be sticky). Actually, the best place to get cards would be from a professional gambler. One may be found in a dark corner of "The Room."

Now try to find three other players. This may be difficult if you have played before.

If you show your partner that you have nothing in your hand, and he also has very little but continues to bid, you have permission to kick him viciously in the shin bone.

If you won a bid, thought you played every card just right and took tricks, maybe you should have passed—passed out.

Be careful not to knock over the coffee pot.

Cards which are not silicone treated may completely disintegrate.

If you have played bridge through the mael hour, you are a true bridge player. You are also out of your head.

400 Free Tickets Held For Concert

Four hundred students will be admitted to the Missoula Civic Symphony concert this Sunday evening at 8:15 in the University Theater.

Bruce Cook, ASMSU business manager, has received 400 tickets for students and faculty members, and has decided to give them away. Interested persons may pick them up at the box office before the performance.

STUDENTS INVITED SUNDAY TO ANNUAL SKI CARNIVAL

The annual Ski Carnival will be held Sunday at Marshall Canyon. The Ski Club is sponsoring the event for all University skiers.

A fun race starting at 2 p.m. is designed to make the expert look like a beginner, Marion Betts, Ski Club president, said. Prizes will be awarded to the men and women who turn in the fastest and slowest times.

At 5 p.m. a chili supper will be served at the Lodge, and dancing will follow.

to Task Force 38 during the closing months of the war. He covered air strikes against the Japanese Empire, and the first full-scale naval bombardment of the islands.

O'Malley was present at the Japanese surrender ceremonies on board the U.S.S. Missouri. He was assigned to Tokyo, and later in 1945 established the first AP bureau in Seoul, Korea. The veteran newsman was arrested by the Russians for crossing the 38th parallel, which was his first brush with Soviet military authorities.

Returning to the United States in 1946, O'Malley worked at Denver, New York, and was later assigned to London.

Following his stay in London, O'Malley went to Berlin to cover the Russian blockade, where he was again thrown in jail by the Russians. O'Malley then went to Frankfurt, where he became German news editor for the AP.

Moscow AP Chief

O'Malley was appointed chief of the AP bureau in Moscow in September, 1955, where he served until ousted by the Russians on Easter, 1956. He then went to London, where he covered the visit of Bulganin and Grushchev.

The trouble in Cyprus called O'Malley to Nicosia, where he established the AP Cyprus-Israel bureau. After about two months on Cyprus, he was assigned to Denver, where he is now bureau chief.

O'Malley's daughter, Sidney, is a sophomore at MSU, and is majoring in foreign languages.

Court Jesters

(Ed. Note—the following is an open letter to Skyline Commissioner E. L. Romney concerning basketball officiating in the Skyline Conference.)

Dear Mr. Romney:

The Skyline Conference is in a sad state of affairs as far as its officiating is concerned. Our officiating is quickly becoming a national joke.

I am not speaking for a "loser" because the Grizzlies are not "losers" this year. Instead, I am speaking unofficially for the member schools of the Skyline Conference.

Skyline officiating has been criticized for the past three seasons, but to no avail. This year you did institute a new system for assigning officials, but the caliber of the officiating has not improved.

The cry of "homer" has disappeared in most cases under your new system, but it was in evidence at Denver when the Pioneers played host to Utah State. Denver players had only one foul called against them in the first half and two in the second half. I am not saying the officials were "homers," but in modern-day basketball it seems quite doubtful that a team could play 40 minutes of basketball and commit only three fouls.

Working in the press box as a statistician for all of Montana's home games, I hear many remarks about the officiating, and seldom do I hear a good one. Most of the time heads are scratched in bewilderment at the calls made by your officials. One night, officiating is almost non-existent. The next night the men in the striped shirts take center stage and play monarch.

Fans have shown their disapproval toward your officials the past three seasons by overzealous booing and harassment of the court jesters. This year, more than ever, persons attending basketball games go home muttering how the game was played by the officials instead of by the players.

If the situation continues, Skyline basketball will lose the high national esteem it has

A Function, Please

A committee appeared before Central Board this week with a sad tale. It appears the group had been appointed to handle convocations, and then found themselves without a function. All imaginable convos were being arranged by other committees.

Perhaps this is true and there are too many committees. If this is the case, there are a lot of committees who do not appear to be functioning.

In days gone by, there was a convo every Friday morning. Most of the programs featured visiting lecturers. But, as the then chairman of Public Exercises pointed out, it was hard to bring in a top speaker every week. The program finally flopped.

Now there are only two or three worth while convos a year; one to hand out awards, one to celebrate Charter Day and one to issue in the Christmas season.

The Christmas convo this year was one of the best held in recent years. Why can't these committees without a function promote more talent convos. The Jubileers are one of the most sought after musical groups in the state. How many University students have heard them perform? How many University students have seen a ballet?

We submit there are many talents here to be drawn upon for convo programs. We are not suggesting a convo be held every week, but a well-planned convo that features an entertaining display of University talent could go a long way in breaking winter quarter apathy. In addition, the committees without a function could at last busy themselves.

Grader Speaks On New Guinea

The lack of social organization is the main problem facing the Dutch government in its attempt to establish self rule in Western New Guinea, Christian J. Grader of the Dutch Information Service said in a talk before the International Relations Club Wednesday evening.

Grader, who was formerly a government agent in the Bureau of Native Affairs at Hollandia, New Guinea, said his government is attacking this problem on a local village level and on a higher territorial level.

"On the small village level we have set up councils which advise the administrative agent, but have no actual power to enact laws or enforce them," he said.

"On a higher level we have set up councils embracing 20 or more villages. These councils advise on the structures the self-governing units will take and what powers they should have," Grader explained.

"With the help of the two-level council projects it is hoped Western New Guinea will become a self-governing territory by 1980," Grader said.

Western New Guinea has three choices in determining its status when the territory becomes independent. Those choices are: it may associate itself with the Indonesian Republic, it may become a part of the Netherlands Union or it may remain independent.

Initiation Followed Party Given by Mortar Board

Audra Browman, Missoula, was initiated into Mortar Board last night in a special ceremony at the Kappa Alpha Theta house.

The initiation followed the "Smarty Party" given by Mortar Board to honor the top ten scholastic women in each class.

Miss Browman was chosen to become a member by last year's Mortar Board group. Special approval from the national organization was necessary, however, because she is graduating in three years. Permission was granted and she was tapped last Wednesday evening.

Religious Groups Plan Prayer Day

Members of campus religious groups will unite in observance of the World Day of Prayer, sponsored by Inter-Church Council, at 7 p.m. Sunday at the University Congregational Church.

According to Carl Allen, chairman of the service, others participating in the workshop program include: Jim Beadle, Les Parker, Rich Martin, Hideo Kimura, and Chub Brown.

Preceding the service, a dinner will be held at 5:30 p.m. in the conference rooms of the Lodge. Students will pick up their suppers in the Cascade Room or Grill.

Norma Beatty, ICC president, will be mistress of ceremonies at the dinner. She will introduce religious group presidents, advisers and ministers. Jack Upshaw will lead group singing.

Eden Denounces U. N. Behavior Towards Israel

LONDON (AP) — Former British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden has broken his silence on world affairs to denounce U. N. behavior toward Israel.

Eden said "There is no justice" in U. N. suggestions that sanctions be applied against Israel for failing to withdraw from Egypt.

"If peace is to endure it must be related to justice. Therefore, it is dangerous when the United Nations treats obedient and small countries with harshness and allows bullies and braggarts to get in their way," Eden said.

There is no case whatever for sanctions against Israel when she asks for guarantees of free passage of the Gulf of Aqaba. Egypt for years has denied Israel free passage through the Suez Canal in defiance of U. N. resolutions, he asserted.

Field House Million Dollar Plant

By GEORGE MILLER

(Ed. note—This is the first of two articles on the Field House. The second article will concern the many activities of the Field House.)

Ask any liberal arts major which building on the campus is the most essential, and he will say the Liberal Arts building.

Ask a journalism student the same question, and he will say the Journalism building.

Ask just a student, and he will say the Lodge. But, ask the same students which building is the University's proudest possession, and unless they are very new or very dense, you will get one answer: the Field House.

One Million Dollars

One million dollars went into building and furnishing the structure. One million dollars and the dedicated efforts of President Carl McFarland.

The Field House idea was introduced by President McFarland shortly after he became President of Montana State University in 1951. He set up a Field House Committee to visit and study similar projects in other parts of the nation, immediately after becoming president.

Another step was taken when former Missoula County Rep. Winfield Page introduced in the Montana Legislature a bill allowing construction of field houses on state campuses.

The bill was passed, and on Mar. 1, 1951, Gov. John W. Bonner signed it into law.

Plans were soon worked out with private financial organizations to borrow money for construction of the Field House. On Aug. 15, 1952, the State Board of Education extended its approval of the project.

Board Approval

On Nov. 1, after the Board had approved the final plans for the Field House, President McFarland presented them to the public for the first time.

The Board of Education approved plans to finance the Field House, Dec. 16, 1952, and authorized the acceptance of bids on a bond issue up to $800,000.

A day later, President McFarland laid the issue before students, alumni, faculty and the Missoula Chamber of Commerce for approval.

Endorsement was given, and on Jan. 15, 1953, revenue bonds, to finance the project without obligation to taxpayers, were sold and customers' bids received before the State Board of Examiners in Helena.

Construction contracts were subsequently signed. Gov. J. Hugo Aronson broke ground for the building Mar. 12.

Robert W. Breen, now operating his own business in San Francisco, was appointed Field House manager, and construction began the next day.

The Auditorium - Athletic Field House, as it was officially named, formally opened Dec. 18, 1953, when the Grizzlies played host to the University of Indiana. The basketball game between Montana and the 1952 NCAA champions was witnessed by 6,500 fans.

Total construction costs amounted to $697,258.40. The original expense, plus the expense of furnishings that have since been added make the total cost of the Field House more than one million dollars.

As long as the structure stands, it will serve as a sort of monument, a monument not only to the persons who made it possible, but to the teams, staff members and others who use this structure as their headquarters.

Denver Down, 'Tips Face Lobos

With the Denver game out of the way, the Grizzlies are setting their sights on the University of New Mexico Lobos.

The Silvertips travel to Albuquerque where they will meet the last-place Wolfpack Saturday night.

The Lobo club is dominated by sophomores with four men most likely to give the 'Tips trouble. They are, according to pre-season releases, Myrl Goodwin, 6-5 center, Beryl Willmore, 5-11 guard, Bob Martin 6-3 forward, and Lindy Lanier, 5-11 guard. Martin is the 13th top scorer in the Skyline. John Teel, the team's leading returning scorer, is eighth in this week's Skyline scoring statistics.

Earlier in the season, Montana defeated the New Mexico club 68-50 in Missoula. The Grizzlies played ragged ball in that contest and only a substantial first half margin saved them. Russ Sheriff and Al Dunham paced the Grizzlies in that contest as they each contributed 17 points.

Teel led the Lobos with 16 points. Goodwin contributed 14. The Grizzlies hit 34.5 per cent of their shots in that contest and the Lobos got 26.2 per cent.

Overall this season New Mexico has totaled 508 points compared to 535 for the Grizzlies. Montana

CHICAGO (P) — A former pro football player is suing the Chicago Cardinals for money he says was due him after he was injured.

Frank McPhee charges that the Cards refused to pay him more than $4,200 due on his contract last year. McPhee filed suit in Federal Court at Chicago and said he was kicked off the team about five weeks after he hurt his shoulder in a practice game.

A spokesman for the Cardinals said club doctors determined that McPhee suffered from a chronic injury incurred long before he joined the team.

WE JUST COULDN'T LOSE—Field House activities reached a high peak Wednesday night, as the Foresters basketball team edged out a determined Lawyer quintet 41-38. Caught in the acts of cheering for their team, these foresters may have had some doubts of winning. In the fourth quarter a free for all broke loose because of the bad officiating (said the foresters), but nothing serious developed from it. Jack Peterson, spokesman for the lawyers, said the reason the lawyers lost was that in the last quarter the team missed six free throws in a row. Oh well lawyers, better luck next year.

New AFROTC Honorary Takes First Members

The first four members were initiated into Sabre Air Flight Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the ROTC building.

Sabre Flight is a new honorary for basic AFROTC cadets. The organization is affiliated with Arnold Air Society. Cadets must have a B average in their AFROTC courses, and be selected by their Air Science instructors to become members.

New initiates are: Pat Leonard, Stan Brown, Harold Hanson, and D. C. Hodges.

The group plans field trips, and a separate flight for spring review. Freshmen will be accepted into Sabre Flight early in March, Charles Bloom, organization commander, said.

New American Plan Approved by Israel

JERUSALEM (P) — The Israeli Cabinet has given tentative approval to part of the new American plan for solving the Israeli-Egyptian problem.

A news source said the Cabinet has agreed to American proposals for an Israeli withdrawal from the Gulf of Aqaba area, in return for United States assurances of free navigation of the waterway.

However, the Cabinet has stood fast on its refusal to give up the Gaza Strip.

The Cabinet met in an emergency session yesterday to hear Premier David Ben Gurion's report on the proposals. The source said it then voted to instruct Ambassador Abba Eban in Washington to accept the proposal for the withdrawal from the Gulf of Aqaba.

The United States sent a detailed explanation of its proposals to King Saud of Saudi Arabia. American officials hope Saud will use his influence to win Arab support for the plan.

NSA Asks MSU To Send Students

MSU has been asked to recommend one or more candidates for the first International Student Relations Seminar of the Great Northwest Region of the National Student Association.

The seminar will be held on the campus of Central Washington College of Education, Ellensburg, Wash., March 29, 30 and 31.

This seminar will be modeled on the annual summer seminar held by NSA at Cambridge, Mass. The Ellensburg meeting is one of eleven seminars of this type scheduled in various regions within the next two months.

Twenty-five students from NSA Northwest region schools will take part in the seminar. Grants will be awarded most of the accepted applicants to underwrite the expenses of the meeting.

According to John Fowler, ASMSU president, applicants should have "... a genuine interest in international affairs, some connection with student activities, campus regards as a good representative, and intellectual ability." They should be either a sophomore or junior.

Application may be made by obtaining a form from Fowler. February 22 has been set as the deadline for making application.

Health Center Gives First Spotted Fever Tick Shots

Students are reminded the first tick shots will be given at the Health Center Monday. Shots cost 50 cents each and the money is to be paid at the business office.

No spotted fever tick shots will be given faculty members or their families under the MSU program, Health Service officials have announced.

Those wishing to take the shots may get them through the Missoula County program which begins at the Court House March 13.
